Introductory Conflict Management Coaching Practitioner Workshop

'The most effective leaders are extraordinarily competent at handling conflict'

Craig Runde and Tim Flanagan, Centre for Creative Leadership, Eckerd College.

The best leaders and managers teach, coach and enable others to be self-reliant. This course provides you with the skills to help others become competent in the management of their own conflict, thereby deescalating disputes and creating a more harmonious and positive working environment.

Public Sector reform and reducing budgets are creating new demands and difficulties for employees and management alike. Similarly the private sector faces cash flow problems, challenging markets and uncertainty, with increasing potential for conflict. Surrounded by conflict, managers cannot be what they need to be. The high cost of disharmony and disputes generates low morale, lack of cooperation, absenteeism, lack of productivity and ultimately costly litigation.

Faced with widespread changes, leaders and managers need more than ever to be inspiring, positive and creative. Conflict Management Coaching is an Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) process increasingly used by HR, business managers and leaders and conflict resolution professionals. It is used successfully to deal with workplace issues including allegations of workplace bullying, performance related issues, change management, team development, personality clashes and other interpersonal workplace conflict.

Content of the Workshop:

Among other things, this 4-day workshop includes the following topics:

- the nature of conflict and conflict dynamics
- theory, principles and methods specific to the CINERGY® model of conflict management coaching
- stages of conflict management coaching
- conflict management skills
- applications of conflict management coaching
- ethical guidelines and standards of practice

Participants will gain:

- An understanding of the nature of conflict and their own responses to it
- An understanding of the principles and methods of the CINERGY® model of conflict management coaching
- A basic competence in the skills of the CINERGY® model of conflict management coaching
- A working knowledge of the applications of this technique
- One individual mentoring session post training
- Certification of course completion, which along with practice hours can lead to CINERGY® qualification
- This workshop is eligible for 24 continuous professional development (CPD) points from the Mediators Institute of Ireland (MII) and has been approved for 26.5 hours of Continuing Coaching Education Unit

Methods Used in the Workshop:

Through self-reflection, skill-building exercises, discussion, simulations, demonstrations and skills practices, participants develop and practice conflict management coaching techniques and skills

Participants:

The training will be of specific interest to public and private sector managers and leaders, HR professionals, team supervisors, union officials, solicitors, barristers, experienced workplace mediators and other conflict management professionals, who want to learn the fundamentals of effective conflict management.

Course Trainers:

Mary Lou O'Kennedy is a professional mediator, conflict coach and trainer. She is co-founder of Amicus Mediation Ltd, which provides mediation, conflict management coaching and training to corporate, public and private clients. Mary Lou brings over 20 years experience in the management of people and companies, and 5 years in conflict resolution to her work with Amicus. She sees the value of the practical conflict management tools and skills developed by those who engage in alternative dispute resolution methods in resolving conflict and achieving positive outcomes whether in the workplace, business, or in private life.

She holds a Bachelors Degree in Social Science from UCD, a Masters in Social Work from the University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She is a Practitioner member of the Mediation Institute of Ireland (MII) having completed her certified training in commercial and family mediation with FriaryLaw (ADR, UK), and workplace and community with Athena Mediation. Mary Lou is also a certified CINERGY® Conflict Management Coach, Mentor and Trainer. She is a member of the FriaryLaw mediation Panel, Chairperson of the Education Committee of the MII and a member of the Irish Commercial Mediation Association.

Phil O'Hehir is a solicitor and co-founding director of Amicus Mediation Limited (Amicus) which is an innovative Irish company specialising in inter-personal conflict management, mediation and training. Amicus delivers its range of services to corporate, professional and private clients.

As a practicing solicitor, Phil combined her case-load in employment law, family law and civil litigation with the role of practice manager of a busy firm whose main area of practice is Human Rights Law. Prior to becoming a solicitor, Phil pursued her career in nursing in intensive care and has a keen interest in medicine. She brings this rich professional experience to her conflict resolution work. Phil mediates and consults on individual and group disputes and advises on the design of conflict resolution processes.

Phil is a CINERGY® Conflict management coach, mentor and trainer. She is a certified member of the Mediators Institute of Ireland and a member of the Irish Commercial Mediation Association and the Law Society.
